These arms arrived by the wagon load at or near Mound City about one month since, in boxes marked as donations for Kansas sufferers. They are all new Montgomery has been in Boston during part of the summer, and returned with plenty of money to enlist recruits.

Many of his men are newly imported. He has taken possession of Fort Scott and other towns on the border, near the Missiouri line. He has murdered Mr. Moore, a grand juror, Mr. Harrison, Mr. Samuel Scott, and Mr. Hinds, and obliged all the United States officers, including myself, to fly for our lives. His own expressed design, in a public speech, as he said, without concealment, was to keep possession of Fort Scott and other places near the Missouri line to prevent a fire in the rear while he cleared out South western Missouri of slaves. So far he has carried out literally his programme. The citizens of Missouri on the Osage and Mermaton rivers, in Bates and Vernon counties, are flying from their homes into the interior. He boasts that he has money and arms to equip and sustain 1,000 men. My Court was broken up by them; also the U.S. Court for the Southern District, and I suspect that they have seized the records, and also the records of the Land Office, as Montgomery publicly declared he would do so.

The Awardawarron of Languages.—There is a growing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words of other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into our own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head," is now becoming popularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as Electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor bora."

HEADACHE is the favorite sign by which nature be looked on as a safeguard intended to give notice disease which might otherwise escape attention, too late to be remedied; and its indications shou never be neglected. Headaches may be classified in dor two names, viz: Symtomatic and Idiopathic. Symptomatic Headache is exceedingly common and is the precursor of a great variety of diseases, among which are Apoplexy, Gout, Rheumatism and all febrile diseases. In its nervous form it is sympathetic of disease of the stomach, constituting sick headache, of hepatic disease constituting bilious herdache, of worms constipation and other disorders of the bowels, as well as renal and uterine affections. Diseases of the heart are very frequently attended with Headaches Aniemia and plethora are also affections which fre quently occasion headache. Idiopathic Headache i also very common, being usually distinguished by the name of nervous heanache, sometimes coming on si dealy in a state of apparently sound health, and pr denly in a state of apparently sound health, and pros-trating at once the mental and physical energies, and in other instances it comes on slowly, heralded by de-pression of spirits or accribity of temper. In most in-stances the pain is in the front of the head, over one or both eyes, and sometimes proveking vemiting; under this class may also be named Neuroligia. For the treatment of either class of Headache the C-phalic Pilla have been found a sure and safe remedy, relieving the most acute mains in a few minutes, and
